

Sal-V's In-N-Out Animal Run

Description

In 1948, the first In-N-Out Burger was founded by Harry and Esther Snyder in Baldwin Park. Harry's idea of a drive-thru hamburger stand where customer could order through a two-way speaker box was quite unique. Harry's idea caught on and California's first drive-thru hamburger stand was born. The Snyder's business philosophy was simple: "Give customers the freshest, highest quality foods you can buy and provide them with friendly service in a sparkling clean environment."

Sal Gray, Riders Edge and Rental Manager, is absolutely "crazy" about the burgers and fries prepared "animal" style. If you haven't already tried them, animal styles a beef patty cooked with mustard. Pickles and extra spread are added and then the burger/fries are topped with a pile of grilled onions.

Your challenge is to follow the ride directions to as many In-N-Out burger locations as you choose to experience. This is the Sal-V's In N Out Animal Run.
